THOMAS J. CORCORAN HIGH SCHOOL

PRESENTS

THE GLEN ECHO

The "Big Four" plus one.

dedication

An open letter . . .

Mr. Otis, as the faculty advisor to our class, you have imparted to us a portion of yourself—your sincerity, your talent for bringing dissenting factions of the class together as one, and your devotion to the students who try to make Corcoran a school which we can feel proud of.

In your capacity as a teacher, you have struck the spark of desire for knowledge in many of us, underclassmen as well as seniors. Through your sense of humor and your fortitude, you have taught an impressive number to drive safely. That you have survived, testifies to your success. To you, therefore, we, the Senior Class of 1967, in behalf of the entire student body, dedicate this volume of our labors, of our joys, of our most memorable experiences which we have shared with you.

"Now listen, Mr. Otis. You know that you're not supposed to eat lunch in class!"

TO THE CORCORAN HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES OF 1967:

Please accept my heartiest congratulations. As you leave high school to go on to whatever careers you choose, at the risk of being accused of preaching, I'd like to remind you of a story.

This has to do with the Parable of the Talents, in which we are told of the three servants who had received five, three, and one talent, respectively. On the Master's return, they all rendered account of their stewardship—the first two had doubled their capital; each of them said so in fourteen words, and they were complimented, "Well done, good and faithful servant."

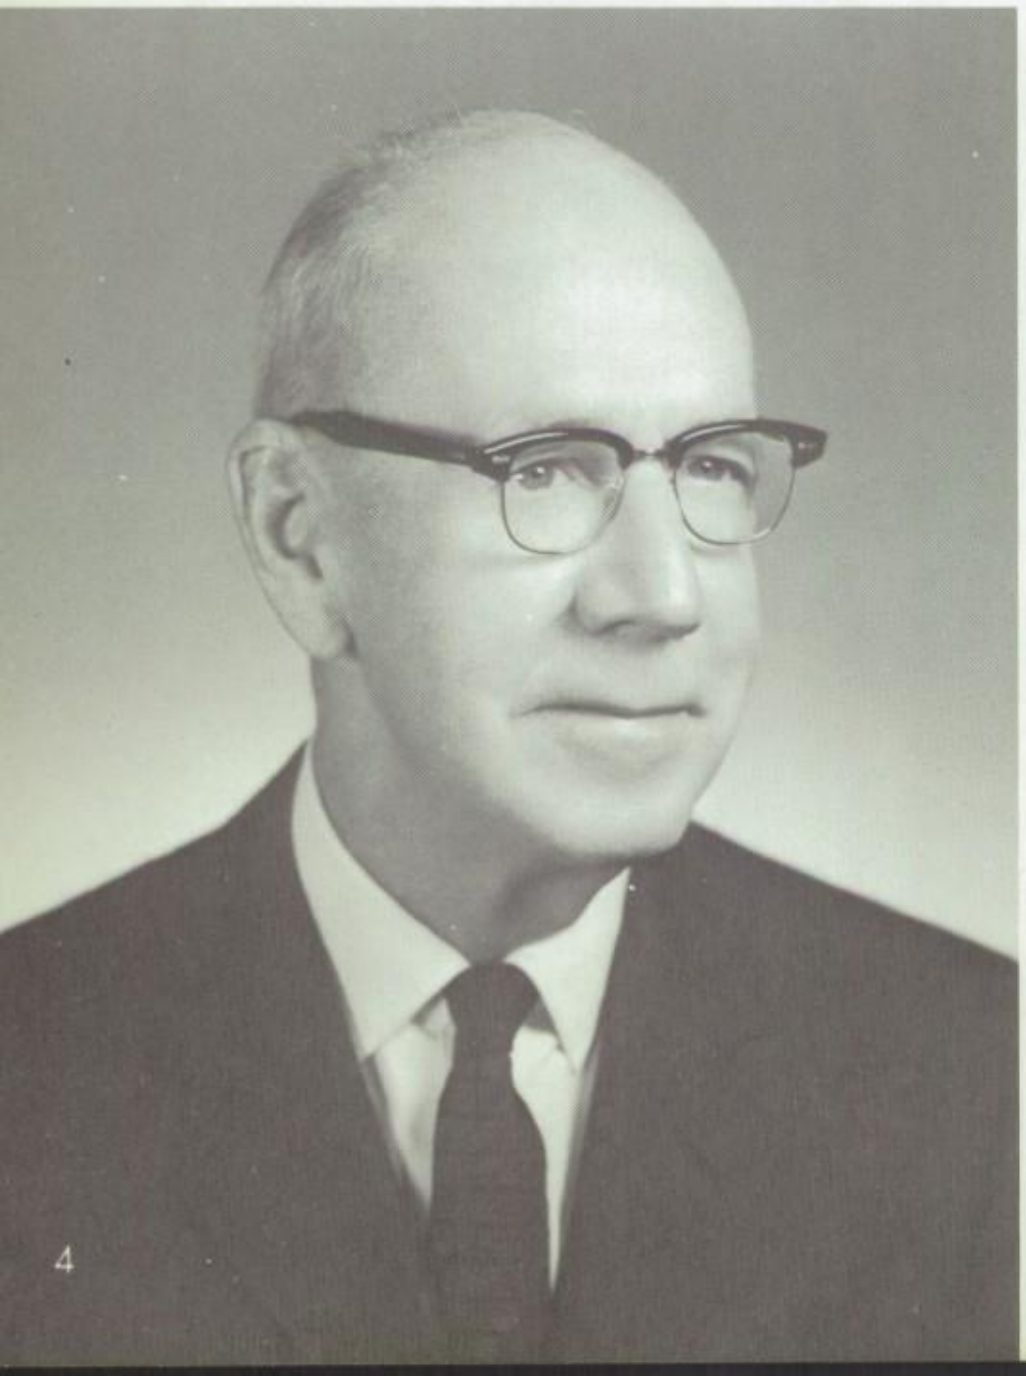
Servant number three had accomplished absolutely nothing but he made a full report in forty-two words—three times as long as the other reports.

There you have it! The less you do—the more you explain.

Do your work a little better than anyone else could do it—that is the margin of success.

Making good needs no foot-notes.

Failure requires forty-two words!



Cordially,

Frederick W. Whiteside

last will and testament

We, the class of 1967 at Corcoran, of the city of Syracuse, in the county of Onondaga, and the state of New York all being of unsound mind and memory do make, publish, and declare forever this our Will and Testament in manner following:

I, Bonnie Agostine, leave gladly.
I, Richard Apps, leave my faded Valley sweatshirt to some deserving junior.
I, Deborah Backus, leave all the senior class expenses and worries to some unsuspecting junior. (Best of Luck!)
I, Daniel Bailey, leave Student Council after many years of hard work.
I, Patrick Bailey, leave the steps in Elmwood Park to someone else who likes wildlife.
I, Joyce Baker, leave all of Mr. Novak's hard piano pieces to a daring junior pianist.
I, Judith Baldwin, leave my "Birdlegs" to anyone who can take the mocks.
I, Lawrence Balestra, leave quickly, quietly, and definitely.
I, Charles Barker, leave my faded blue jeans to Mr. Broscoe.
I, Barbara Barnes, leave my worn out tires to Vicky.
I, Deborah Barth, leave still wondering why we never got caught.
I, Carole Bartlett, leave my seat at the football games to the girlfriend of a first-string player.
I, Charlene Beak, leave Brian.
I, John Beard, gladly leave my ability to blush to a nice junior who can use it as often as I did.
I, Diane Belanger, leave my bookkeeping book to the dedicated juniors.
I, Kathleen Bell, leave behind all my wonderful and happy memories of VO and Corcoran to my sister Paula.
I, David Bengtson, gladly leave my orange shirt and blue sneakers to some junior without color.
I, Jeanette Berry, leave in a hurry.
I, Robert Bidwell, leave my brown eyes to a certain nice, quiet, shy churchmouse.
I, Sandra Bigtree, leave my broken saxophone reeds to Mr. Forbes.
I, LeGrand Bloss, leave knowing I'll most likely be back.
I, Beverly Bowman, leave with Mr. D still mocking me and Mr. Otis still laughing at me.
I, Dawn Bracy, leave to Corcoran the luck of having a great Westhill student only one year.
I, Michael Broader, leave quietly with no regrets and few promises.
I, Susan Brotherton, leave nothing to no one.
I, Susan Buckley, leave my pokiness to a speedy junior.
I, Kathleen Cain, leave gladly.
I, Brenda Carden, leave mouse to someone who hasn't got one.
I, Steven Carey, leave my Varsity limp to M.J.
I, Donald Carpenter, leave wishing I could have left two years earlier.
I, Arthur Carruthers, leave French 2 to anyone.
I, Richard Castallo, leave Corcoran for White.
I, Anthony Cavallo, leave a quarter of my brain to Spider Smith so that he might have a quarter of my intelligence.
I, Linda Cerio, leave all my good times in my senior year to my best friend Ann and thanks for my happiness to Jim C.
I, Merry Champlin, leave my great spelling ability to a shorthand student.
I, Donna Checkosky, leave to Mr. Kenyon my sympathy.
I, Geraldine Christ, leave my ability of losing guitar pics to anyone who can do better than I.
I, Robert Clapper, leave my height to a short sophomore.
I, Carol Clift, leave happily.
I, Rita Cogan, leave Corcoran with fondest memories and hope following graduates do also.
I, Vernon Collett, leave proudly.
I, Judith Corrice, leave to all Corcoran girls the "wonderful" feeling after swimming.
I, Judith Costello, leave my shorthand ability to any junior who needs it.
I, Joanne Cullings, leave to join Paul.
I, Kathleen Curtis, leave hoping that my sister will soon follow.
I, Daniel Czajak, leave the back seat of Bob's cycle to anyone who can stand it.
I, Bohdan Danyluk, leave at last hoping that I have accomplished something.
I, Terry DeLooze, leave all my junk to anyone who wants it.
I, Mieczystaw Deskiewicz, leave the school with fond memories.
I, Diane DeVesty, leave still writing letters.
I, Lynne Dixon, leave this cool school to the kids who are just as cool.
I, Catherine Donnelly, leave Corcoran still petitioning against the yearbook.
I, Elizabeth Dorfer, leave my lab kit to anyone who wants it.
I, Cassandra Downey, leave with nothing learned but lots to remember.
I, Mark Driscoll, leave Mr. Converse a noisy study hall.
I, Janice Dugan, leave my grouchiness to a loveable junior.
I, Rosemary Dupee, leave the earlier bus ride to two junior girls.
I, Norma Dyette, leave Mrs. Fogarty's homeroom to some lucky juniors.
I, James Edmonds, have nothing left to leave to any junior after two years at Corcoran.
I, Victoria Elias, leave Corcoran's skimpy swimsuits to any junkman who cares to collect them.
I, Alexa Enders, leave still able to solve everyone's problems but my own.
I, Raymond Esce, leave my feet to a junior who is expecting to play football.
I, Susan Fadden, leave Corcoran to all the worthy underclassmen.
I, Charles Fahey, leave nothing.
I, Joseph Fahey, leave to Paul Gruman the copyright, sales, and profits from Pictures of Pearl.
I, Andrew Fecco, leave my devilishness to an angelic junior.
I, Lucille Felice, leave my congeniality to a dull junior.
I, Patricia Felice, leave my long hair growing.
I, William Fields, leave still taking three lunches.
I, Lewis Fisher, hope to leave.
I, Linda Flanagan, leave Tommy Martin to all the "trustworthy" girls in Corcoran.
I, Craig Flansburg, leave my position in the Honor Society to a worthy junior.
I, Joan Fox, leave this school in hopes that six brothers and sisters will have as much fun as I have had.

I, David Frank, leave all my records to be broken by William Hicks and my books to Billy Hodges.
I, Geraldine Frass, leave nothing and take what is mine.
I, Barbara Fretwell, leave my class ring to Barry Kroft and take my accent.
I, John Fynmore, leave my slide rule to some mathematical junior.
I, Carl Gale, leave a sixer to a Thursday junior.
I, Lois Gale, leave school to some school-loving junior.
I, Mary Gavin, leave to all junior girls my good friends, M.B. and D.D., with a warning "Watch out!"
I, Joseph Geiss, leave fifty pounds to a puny sophomore.
I, Terry Giangiobbe, leave graduating from high school.
I, Susan Giarrosso, leave my seat in Math 12A and 11 to any junior who has the guts enough to fill it.
I, Richard Golden, leave all the slang words I know to Mrs. Canfield, hoping that they may improve her vocabulary.
I, Robert Golden, leave my guide badge to anyone who wants it.
I, Glen Goldthwait, leave anything that I left behind to anyone who wants it because I won't be back for it.
I, John Grace, leave to Miss Frarey her perfect typewriters.
I, Sharon Grimm, leave my unused stationery to Joy Gardner.
I, Janice Grosso, leave still with a wise attitude.
I, Constance Groth, leave all the fine memories and happy times of my senior year to the juniors.
I, Carole Hackett, leave owing Mrs. Mindnich $2,000.00 in library fees.
I, John Haley, leave my crutches to a deserving junior.
I, Linda Halsey, leave Ellen Kerwin my gym locker and everything in it, if she can remember the combination.
I, Mary Hallihan, leave Chickenman with his green beret.
I, Richard Hammerle, leave my great abilities and tremendous ways with women to some ugly, shy junior.
I, William Hanbury, leave my thumbs to Mr. Chadwick, hoping he has better luck than I had.
I, Brenda Hand, leave all my possessions to George Gibbs of Pulaski.
I, Pamela Hard, leave wishing that I could start my high school years over again.
I, Howard Harlow, leave Corcoran High's first successful Student Council along with Miss "Hap" Horrigan to the future offices of President.
I, Diane Harper, leave a "little" laziness and my gym suit to whoever wants it.
I, John Harper, leave Corcoran to Boy's Voice and Mr. Novak.
I, David Harris, gladly leave my books to any junior who can get more out of them than I did.
I, Cynthia Hartman, leave my loopers to Judy Shetler.
I, James Hayes, leave, I hope.
I, Virginia Haynes, leave to my sorority sisters all the luck in the world.
I, Deborah Heagle, leave my holey sneaks and faded gym suit to Cathy D.
I, Geraldine Hebing, leave to my best friend B.P. all my arguments in Miss Clark's gym classes in hopes she carries them on.
I, Michael Henderson, leave happily.
I, Kathryn Hertkorn, leave my tonsils to some aspiring medical student.
I, Richard Herz, leave one bath tub to Ricky Rose and my athletic ability to Brian Honald.
I, Wynn Hofsommer, leave gladly.
I, Kent Hogan, leave all gross statements to Janice Grosso.
I, Patrick Hogan, leave my geometry book to Mike Fillinger.
I, Hixie Holley, leave Cheryl.
I, Richard Hook, leave my pleasant disposition and my ability to infer things to Doug Tackley or some junior.
I, Carol Horner, leave my knees: Harold and Ginger.
I, Daniel Hurry, leave Joe at Corcoran to carry on where I left off.
I, Ellen Iurino, leave a lot of headaches and a bottle of aspirin to Dianna Loesch.
I, Laura Jackson, leave to go with Tim.
I, Linda Jacobs, leave to Mrs. Canfield and to Mr. Scaravillo my sincerest thanks for giving me an unforgettable memory of perfect example, tremendous knowledge, and much appreciated patience.
I, Vanisse Janeway, leave Mr. Novak in a peaceful state of mind.
I, Berle Jones, leave quickly before anyone changes his mind!
I, Daniel Kaiser, leave to any student one open space in a very confused school.
I, Frank Karazuba, leave my ability to speak English to an unfortunate foreigner.
I, Suzanne Kelsey, leave duplicate copies of my diploma, which are to be placed in the offices of Mr. Whiteside, Mrs. Broscoe, and Miss Tucker.
I, William Kennedy, leave my charm and wit to Mrs. Canfield and my skill in drafting to Mr. Otis.
I, Patrick Kenney, leave finally.
I, Susan Kenney, leave happily with Jerry.
I, Dianne Ketcham, leave to C.S., M.P., D.G., and R.K. T.J.C.'s cool bathing suits.
I, Katherine Kimball, leave my seat at lunch to a worthy junior girl.

ACTIVITIES

The 1967 Glen Echo Staff experienced a busy and eventful year that was filled with both fun and problems. Possessing no previous knowledge of journalism on a large scale, the editors and staff members strove to do their level best. We hope that the second volume of the Glen Echo gives living proof of the many laborious hours spent to produce a testimonial worthy of our alma mater and its students.

You say they stole 118?????

Then there was the story that never got into the yearbook . . .

HAPPINESS IS CANDIDS

Now, if this doesn't look posed!

I'd like to search this vehicle for a stolen typewriter.

american field service

The American Field Service, composed of Americans and thousands of young people from all over the world started its history in Paris during the First World War as a volunteer ambulance service. During those years, AFS volunteers worked side by side with men of foreign countries. After the war the AFS decided to continue creating these personal contacts by starting a student exchange program. At first only college students participated, and then in 1947 it was decided that understanding could be more easily established with younger high school students. Today there are over 3,000 students in the American Field Service here and abroad.

Corcoran's second American Field Service student is Hannelore Klüver, a resident of Hamburg, Germany. In Hamburg, Hannelore lives with her parents, Alice and Hans Klüver, and her brother, Hans Peter. During her visit to our country, she has been living with the Donald Yackel family. Her American sister, Christine, was also an American Field Service semi-finalist. In Germany, Hannelore attends the Albert-Schweitzer-Schule and she is in the twelfth grade. Upon completing two more years of high school in her country, she hopes to enter college. Here at Corcoran her subjects include: great issues, Spanish II, personal typing, advanced art, and English.

The International Relations' Club has been established for the purpose of bettering relations between America and her friends across the seas. In furthering these relationships, an IRC Day was held in addition to several parties for the foreign exchange students. Moreover, a delegation of members attended a model United Nations General Assembly meeting sponsored by Auburn Community College which was held to acquaint high school students with the operations of the UN. Officers for the 1966-67 school year were as follows: left to right: Susan Giarrosso, Treasurer; Eileen Stott, President; Hannelore Klüver, German American Field Service student, Ellen Iurino, Vice President; and Susan Buckley, Secretary. The club's advisor is Mrs. Good.

latin club

The activities of Corcoran's Latin Club, Romani Hodierni, include: regular meetings every two weeks, a celebration of the Roman Saturnalia at Christmas, slides of ancient Pompeii, candy sales, a Roman Banquet, a joint meeting with the Latin Clubs of Central Tech and Nottingham for a "Night of the Baths" (a splash party), representation at the Junior Classical League Convention in Rochester, and the presentation of an award to an outstanding club member. Officers this year include: Sarah Singer, President; Jerry Marsh, Vice President; Jay Downs, Treasurer; George Mallia, Sergeant-at-Arms. The club's advisor is Miss Schamu.

student council

The second Student Council of Thomas J. Corcoran High School has initiated several new programs to improve and to broaden its interests in school affairs.

This organization, under the supervision of Miss Marion Horrigan, sponsored an American Field Service stock drive in order to raise funds to aid future exchange students. The Council established the Dress Code and they have planned to publish Corcoran's first handbook. The idea of Corridor Guides was first introduced through this organization. In addition, the Student Council has sponsored several fund raising projects to finance a Peace Corps school in South America. The officers, seated left to right, include: Miss Marion Horrigan, advisor; John Lautore, Treasurer; Sally Constantine, Corresponding Secretary; Howard Harlow, President; Kathleen LaGrange, Sergeant-at-Arms; Christine Yackel, Recording Secretary; and Hannelore Klüver, Corcoran's AFS student. Missing: Katherine Kimball, Vice President.

honor society

Mr. Frederick Whiteside looks on as Monsignor Thomas Costello delivers an address at the District 10 Conference.

The purpose of the National Honor Society, is to encourage higher scholastic rating, to represent the school in outside activities, and to provide cooperative cultural and social activities. Induction ceremonies were held in March. The qualifications for admittance to the organization are the following: Sophomores-90% average, juniors-88%, and seniors-85%. Activities for this year have included a District 10 Conference on November 19, 1966 which was attended by the National Honor Societies of 31 area high schools. A Folk Concert was held on April 7, 1967 featuring several central New York groups. A National Honor Society Scholarship of $100 will be given to a deserving senior at the end of the school year. This year's officers include: Craig Flansburg, President; Eileen Stott, Vice-President; Christine Yackel, Secretary; Sarah Singer, Treasurer. The society is advised by Mr. Conrad Peacock.

Advisor Conrad Peacock and President Craig Flansburg hold a meeting prior to the conference.

The 1966-67 Newsbowl team, on November 4th at Liverpool High School, participated in the first match ever to be taped before a live audience. In December the team helped an eighth grade social studies class taught by Mrs. Margaret Kelly at Bellevue School to put on their own Newsbowl contest. The project was undertaken in order to provoke an interest in Newsbowl and to recruit future members for the Corcoran team. This eighth grade class, along with another class from Bellevue, were guests for the first taping of a Newsbowl match to be recorded live in Corcoran's auditorium on January 28th. Their advisor is Mr. James Doty.

the quill

The Quill, Corcoran's newspaper, is a self-supporting organization whereby students do all the reporting, writing, typing, and layout work. The paper is printed in the school print shop under the supervision of Mr. Robinson twice a month. Highlights of all school activities are emphasized. This year The Quill has experimented with several type styles and different qualities of paper in hopes of improving its overall impression. The last issue of the school year will be a special Senior Issue which will contain such items as graduation and the prom. This year's staff is headed by the following: Kathy Milligan, Editor-in-Chief; Carolyn Lisi, News Editor; Frank Karazuba, Sports Editor; Karen Whipple, Art Editor; Dennis Williams, Exchange Editor; Joy Gardner, Circulation Editor; Jerry Marsh, Business Manager; Lee Spinks, Public Relations; and Miss Palmer, Advisor.

chess club

The Corcoran Chess Club is a newly organized activity that is working to obtain its charter. The purpose of the club is to improve members' skills in the game and to enter a team in the State Scholastic Championship. The members have also played teams from other schools in the area. Mr. David Sarazin advised the group.

Distributive Education Club of America is an organization open to any student of retailing. Its purpose is to help further student interest in the field of marketing.

Each year contests are held on the local, state, and national levels. These competitions are related to course content and winners receive both money and scholarships.

DECA raises money for its operations through the sponsorship of car washes and candy and pizza sales.

In February the club attended a city-wide employer-employee banquet honoring all local retailers.

The group meets on Mondays during eighth period under the supervision of Mrs. Swiderski. The 1966-67 slate of officers includes: Deborah Koch, President; Elizabeth Kelley, Vice President; Deborah Volan, Secretary; Patrick Matthews, Treasurer; Kent Hogan, Parliamentarian.

lsm

The Living Science Museum consists of students who are interested in one or more of the scientific disciplines and is divided into two general areas: the Biological Sciences, which include anthropology, botany, bacteriology, zoology and other facets of biology, and the Physical Sciences, which include physics, chemistry, geology, mathematics, and engineering. The members, especially those in the advanced biology class, maintain a museum whose display is rotated regularly to offer a variety of interesting exhibits. In addition to the museum itself, LSM offers a guest lecture series at which prominent figures in their fields, give more or less formal talks on prearranged subjects. Also, LSM sponsors for the members a program of informal talks by local scientists which are given after school hours. Any member who so desires is encouraged to investigate on his own, using any equipment the school if able to offer. The current officers are: Physical Science Chairman, Sarah Singer; Biological Science Chairman, Jack McAllister; Physical Science Program Committee Chairman, Steven Wolniack; Biological Science Program Committee Chairman, Tom Heath; Secretary, Debby Buckley; Treasurer, Sue MacQuivey. The co-advisers are Miss Bordonaro and Mr. Hoag.

library club

Work in the school library is the chief activity of Library Club members. Students work at the circulation desk, process new materials, reshelve, and keep in order materials which have been used. An estimated 2,000 class hours are volunteered in a school year. The members have also donated books to be sent to a school in India.

This year's officers include: Dolores Sheppard, Secretary; Frances Palumbo, President; James Woodworth, Vice President; Jeanette Berry, Treasurer; and Mrs. Beverly Mindnich, Librarian.

health club

The purpose of the Health Club is the exploration and evaluation of opportunities in the health professions and occupations. These opportunities are expanding because of their increasing population and greater emphasis upon obtaining health protection and health care. Medicine is but one of the areas of opportunity and personal reward in the health field. For every physician there are approximately twelve persons pursuing challenging, satisfying careers allied to medicine.

The club's advisor is Mrs. Thelma C. Crotty.

The Frederick W. Whiteside Chapter of the Future Teachers of America was organized for the students who plan to undertake a career in teaching or to investigate this field. Each spring FTA members visit Carrier Corporation to attend a conference dealing with the various opportunities in the field of teaching. Their other activities include: regional FTA conferences, regular meetings with guest speakers, Student Recognition Day, and Parent's Night. Funds for trips are raised through active participation in such projects as bake sales and candy sales which are held throughout the year. This year's slate of officers includes: President, Maureen Krantz; Vice President, Cindy Romocki; Secretary, Nancy Warner; Treasurer-Parliamentarian, Marsha Greer. Their advisors are Miss Haynes and Miss Freedman.

The purpose of the Red Cross is to develop good community-minded citizens, to assist in community affairs, and to train aides and assistants for the American National Red Cross. The advisors are Mr. Macko and Mr. Cameron.

fha

The purpose of the Future Homemakers of America is to work together to help individuals improve personal, family, and community living. Their activities included a 21st birthday project and participation in City Council FHA. The officers, seated at the table, are the following: President, Barbara Fretwell; Advisor, Miss Miller; Vice President, Marianne Kotz; Secretary, Linda Cerio; Treasurer, Anne Glassford.

fsa

Future Secretaries of America's activities included a monthly meeting with other city chapters to hear secretarial information from National Secretaries. In May they held their annual FSA banquet and chose the "Future Miss Secretary". The officers are: President, Diane Norton; Vice President, Julia Bryant; Secretary, Debby Raymish, and Treasurers, Terry Riley and Cheryl Christopherson. Miss Doran and Miss Frarey are the advisors.

ski club

The Ski Club, with well over seventy members (including some students from other schools in the area), meets once a week to organize its numerous activities. At this time, films of skiing techniques and safety are often shown. In addition, many members participated in a program of ski lessons at Greek Peak besides taking day trips to nearby ski areas. The Ski Club is advised by Miss Judith Jones. The officers are: President, Wayne Smith; Vice President, Pat Fitzgerald; Secretary, Debbie Clark; Treasurer, Jean Gardner; Sergeant-at-Arms, Liz Kelly; and Trip Chairman, Sue Wike.

The Pep Club is a newly formed club this year with about forty active members. The officers are: President, Bev Bowman; Vice President, Sharon Alama; Secretary, Bron Adams; and Treasurer, Diane Osborne. Mrs. Ferguson and Mr. Peacock are the advisors. The club had bake sales, sold school pennants, and bought shakers for the members. The main purpose of the club is to support Corcoran's teams and to boost their spirit and morale.

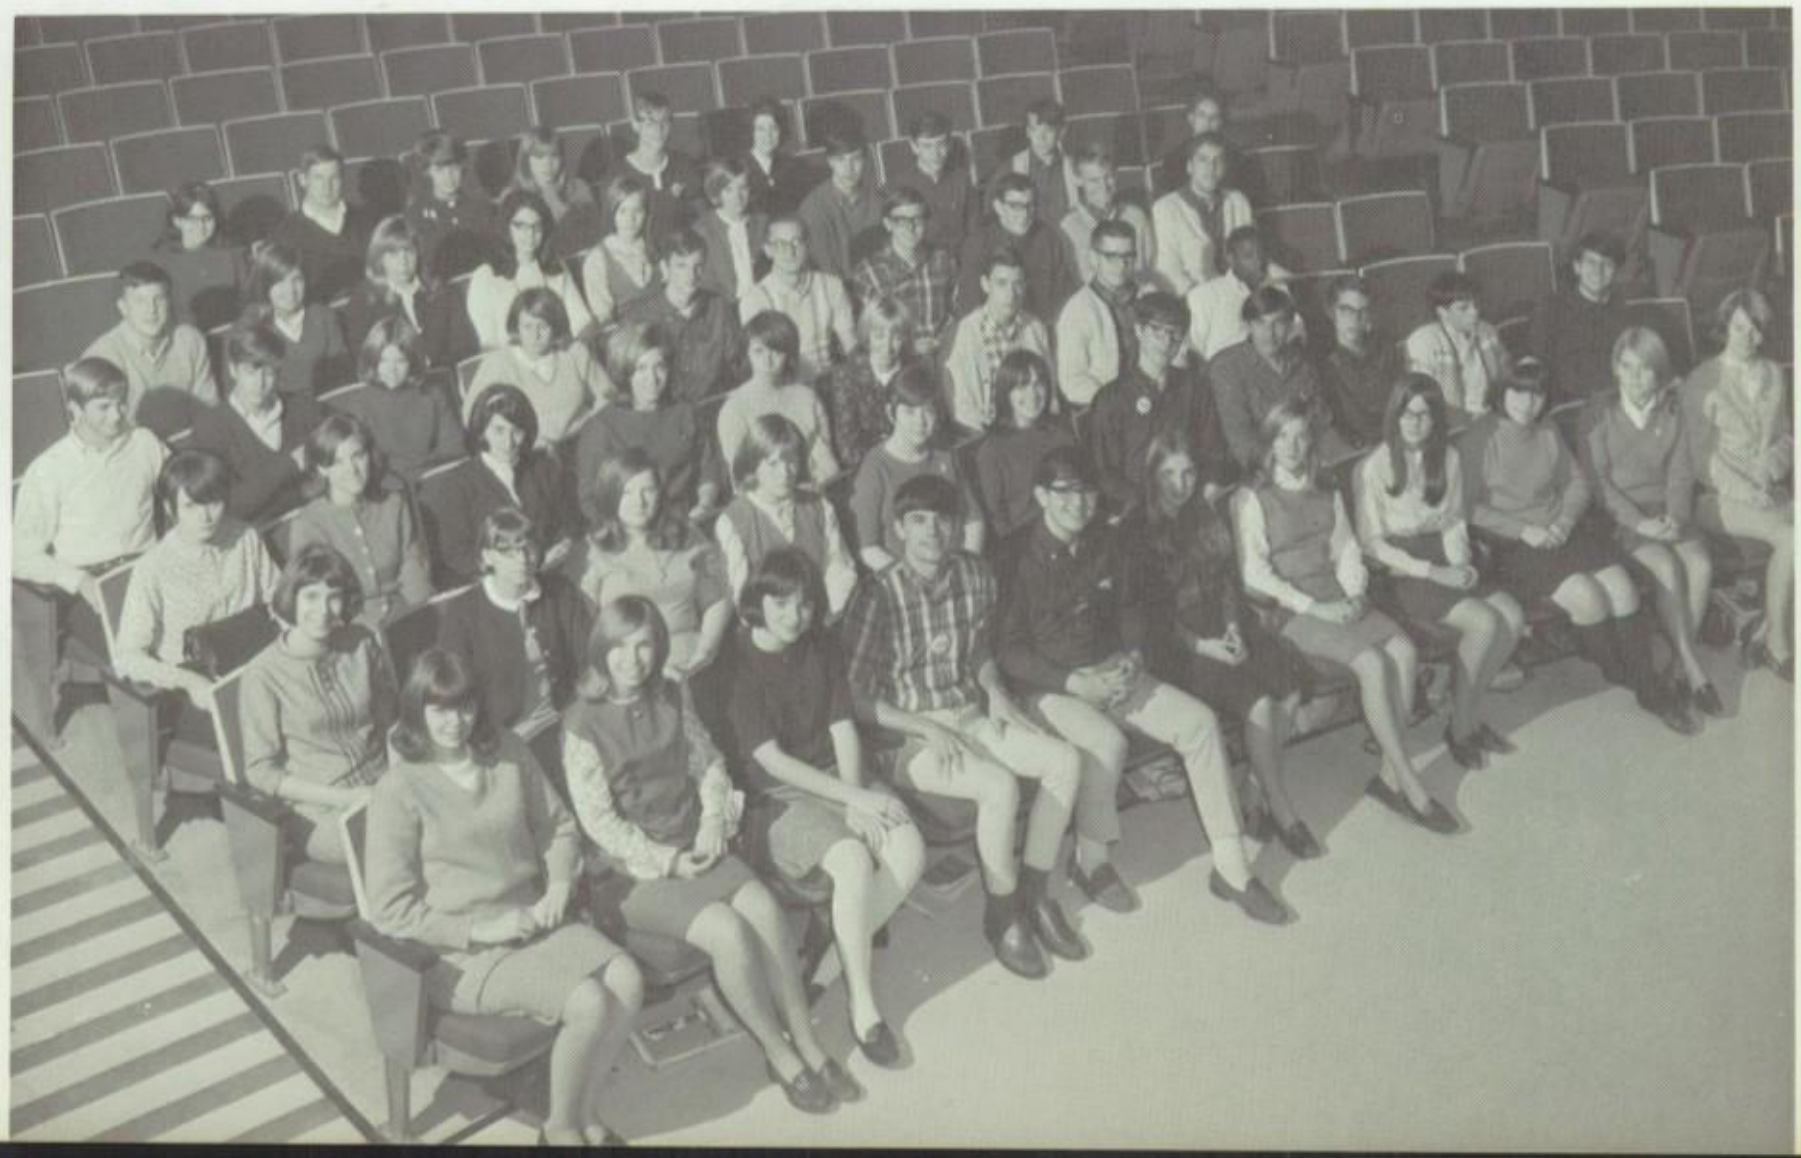
pep club

creative writing

The Creative Writing Club, a relatively new club at Corcoran, meets Thursdays after school to supplement the study of Modern literature in the classroom and to encourage students to improve their own writing. Their main activity this year was the publication of the Student-Literary magazine "The Inkblot". The officers include Nancy Flynn as Editor-in-Chief, and Sheila Socia, Art Editor. The staff members are Liz Lockley, Doug MacDonald, Spero Pines, Nancy Warner, Bob Watson, Eileen White, and Dennis Williams. Their advisor is Miss Pruitt.

corridor guides

The Corridor Guides were organized in October of 1966 by a legislative act of Corcoran's Student Council. These select members of the student body act as guides to guests in the building, check passes of students during class periods, and serve at the discretion of the principal at school functions such as Parents' Night. Miss Horrigan advises the group.



advanced chorus

Approximately seventy students comprise the Advanced Chorus under the direction of Mr. Sidney Novak. Only juniors and seniors who have been in Mr. Novak's previous classes are allowed to join. The group performed at Open House, the Christmas Concert, and the Spring Concert. The accompanists are Joyce Baker and Vanisse Janeway.

Fifty-five voices comprise the Mixed Chorus which is also under the direction of Mr. Sidney Novak. Its purpose is to train students to sing in the Advanced Chorus next year. They sang at Christmas and Spring Concerts. The accompanist is Nancy West.
